Hanwei is a historical sword brand associated with Paul Chen and swordmaking in Dalian. Japanese swords formed the early core of the range, which later expanded into European and Chinese designs, knives and other historical arms. CAS Iberia has confirmed continuation of the brand after the original factory closed.

Hanwei in our range

The store profile covers katanas, wakizashi, tanto and iaito, alongside European swords, rapiers, sabers, Chinese swords, polearms and fencing equipment. Stands, cases and selected protective items are represented as well.

Selecting the right model

- For martial arts, choose only equipment whose specification matches the training method and your instructor's requirements.
- For a historical sword, compare construction, length, weight, balance point and edge condition.
- For display, check dimensions, mounting method and stand compatibility.

Hanwei covers several distinct ranges, so the full product specification should determine the intended use.

Replicated from a sword thought to be that of Albrecht II of Austria, the Hand-and-a-Half Sword (SH2034) represents the pinnacle of beauty and balance in medieval swords. Classically simple in design with a flattened diamond-section blade and cruciform hilt, the original dates from the early part of the 15th century. The Lion Rampant emblem of the Habsburg dynasty is engraved in the pommel, while the Passau Running Wolf guild mark and a marigold maker's mark appear on the blade fuller. Both the grip and the scabbard are leather covered over a cord wrap.
